

I am very concerned about the affects that BPL will have on the amateur radio service and other users of radio spectrum. I ask that the FCC perform more testing on the impact of BPL. As recent disasters and wide-scale emergencies have demonstrated, the amateur radio service is often the only means for passing information. If the radio waves are too noisy to use, our country will have lost a vital national resource. There is the appearance, too, that the FCC is simply rubber-stamping well-financed businesses instead of seeking out what's best for all users of the spectrum.
